1 I. INTRODUCTION

2 The events leading up to the filing of this action (“Mergens Action”), and 3 ultimate Settlement,<sup>1</sup> presented unusual and difficult challenges for Class Counsel 4 and Defense Counsel alike. As co-lead class counsel in the initial action, United 5 Desert Charities, et al. v. Sloan Valve Company, et al., Case No. 2:12-cv-06878-
6 SJO-SH (“UDC Action”), Birka-White Law Offices, (“BWLO”) assumed full 7 responsibility for overseeing and monitoring the administration of the $18 million 8 common fund settlement (“UDC Settlement Fund”).<sup>2</sup> As claims in the UDC Action 9 progressed, BWLO learned that claims were being made by individuals whose 10 Series 503 Flushmate III Pressure-Assist Flushing Systems (“Flushmate Systems”)
11 were manufactured after the date which circumscribed the UDC Action's class 12 definition, namely October 14, 1997 to June 30, 2009. By definition, these claims 13 were outside of the scope of the UDC settlement and, therefore, denied.

14 This scenario was troubling and provoked further inquiry. Our investigation 15 revealed that Flushmate units manufactured after June 30, 2009, were substantially 16 similar to those manufactured during the UDC class period. Then on July 14, 2016, 17 Sloan’s division, Flushmate, and the Consumer Product Safety Commission
18 (“CPSC”) jointly announced an expanded voluntary recall of Flushmate Systems 19 manufactured from July 1, 2009 through April 30, 2011. With the announcement of 20 the Expanded Recall, BWLO thereafter filed the Mergens Action. Complicating 21 matters, in July of 2016, the two year claims period in the UDC Action was 22 winding down with an upcoming expiration date of September 24, 2016. It became 23 apparent that the UDC Settlement Fund would have a remaining balance of more 24 _____

25 <sup>1</sup> Initial capitalized terms utilized herein have the same definitions as set forth in 26 the Class Action Settlement Agreement and Release filed March 1, 2017 (ECF No.
27 33-1, Exhibit A) unless otherwise indicated.

28 <sup>2</sup> BWLO filed the first of numerous cases against Sloan and served as lead plaintiffs’ counsel among the many nationwide plaintiffs law firms involved in the underlying UDC Action. Mr. Birka-White and Ms. Wong had the sole responsibility for overseeing the administration of the UDC settlement. This responsibility was assumed, without additional compensation.

1 than $7 million.

2 This application for fees and costs is presented to the Court in the framework
3 of this unusual scenario. This unexpected situation raised a series of complicated 4 questions which required BWLO, class counsel in the UDC Action, to at once
5 formulate a procedure for properly distributing the unclaimed amounts in the UDC 6 Settlement Fund, which would fully protect the interests of UDC class members, 7 while fairly and adequately reaching a settlement in the Mergens Action - a 8 scenario which can fairly be described as requiring a very high-level of legal 9 analysis and skill from counsel for both sides.

10 For months, counsel for both parties struggled to achieve a solution. On the 11 one hand, Defendant understandably wanted to avoid what it viewed as a 12 potentially wasteful cy pres distribution of the unclaimed UDC settlement proceeds 13 in that the Mergens putative class was separated from the UDC class merely by date 14 of manufacture. Furthermore, Defendant argued, why give the UDC class members 15 who timely made claims a windfall, when Mergens Class members (“Mergens 16 Class Members”) stood in the wings as the “highest and next best use” of the 17 funds? On the other hand, BWLO was acutely aware that the UDC settlement funds 18 were for the benefit of UDC class members. In that context, BWLO insisted that 19 any settlement in the Mergens Action which contemplated the potential use of the 20 unclaimed UDC settlement funds must first provide that UDC class members be 21 made whole for all reasonable out-of-pocket installation costs incurred and property 22 damage sustained.<sup>3</sup> Furthermore, UDC class members must retain full access to the 23 _____

24 <sup>3</sup> Under the original settlement terms in the UDC Action, property damage claims 25 were paid in full. However, claimants that filed non-Property Damage claims were 26 limited to $50.00 for the first toilet and $25 for each additional toilet repaired or 27 replaced at the same property. Subsequently, after the conclusion of the UDC 28 Claims Period, the plan of allocation was amended to provide for distribution of up to $127.50 for the first toilet and up to $30 for each additional toilet repaired or replaced at the same location. If the claim exceeds those sums, the amount is reviewed by the Special Circumstances Committee for final disposition. During the extended UDC claims period, UDC class members will continue to receive up to $127.50 for the first toilet and $30 for each additional toilet repaired or replaced at 1 $18 million settlement fund. An overarching protection for the UDC settlement 2 class was further achieved by extending the initial two year claims period for an 3 additional year.

4 Furthermore, the parties implemented a new robust notice program that was 5 designed to reach as many UDC class members as reasonably possible. Finally, the 6 Mergens Class members would have to receive the same recovery as UDC class 7 Members. Parenthetically, Defendant will have to replenish the UDC Settlement 8 Fund with all sums necessary to fully pay all Mergens Class Members' valid claims 9 in the event that the UDC Settlement Fund were exhausted prior to the close of the 10 Claims Period. Put differently, Sloan would have to deposit all sums necessary to 11 ensure that UDC class members have full access to the initial $18 million 12 settlement fund.

13 In this sense, and somewhat ironically, the necessity to struggle with the 14 doctrine of cy pres to create an equitable methodology for distributing the 15 remaining sums in the UDC Settlement Fund, together with the necessity to protect 16 the interests of UDC class members, drove up the settlement benefits for both UDC 17 and Mergens class members. The resulting modification of the UDC settlement and 18 the separate Mergens settlement, reflect a high-quality, fair and sophisticated 19 solution to a nuanced problem, which was only achieved after months of 20 contentious negotiations, two mediations, and skillful lawyering. The parties 21 negotiated an agreement regarding class counsel fees and expenses only after 22 reaching agreement on all other material terms of the agreement.

23 Accordingly, Class Counsel request $600,000 in attorney fees and 24 reimbursement of costs in the amount of $9,601.05 associated with the Settlement.
25 The lodestar and constructive common fund analysis that justify the fee is set forth 26 hereinafter.

27 the same property. Again, if the claim exceeds those sums, the amount will be 28 reviewed by the Claims Administrator in the first instance, and then the Special Circumstances Committee for final disposition.

1 II. FACTUAL BACKGROUND.

2 A. Mergens Settlement Negotiations

3 The proposed Settlement is the product of contested, and arms-length 4 settlement negotiations conducted by an experienced mediator, Hon. William J.
5 Cahill (Ret.) of JAMS. Birka-White Decl., ¶ 23. The first mediation session was 6 held on September 14, 2016. Id. at ¶ 25. As class counsel in the UDC Action, it
7 was imperative that the UDC class members receive the full benefit of the $18 8 million settlement fund. Id. Further painstaking negotiations continued for several 9 weeks before an agreement was reached on all material terms on October 27, 2016.
10 Id. A second mediation session was held with Judge Cahill on December 9, 2016, 11 to discuss attorney's fees and costs. Id. at ¶ 27. The requested fees were contested 12 and the parties reached a compromise and settlement of the attorney fee issue only 13 after engaging in an extensive mediation process with Judge Cahill. Id. at ¶ 25.
14 Following the December 9, 2016 mediation, negotiations regarding a definitive 15 written agreement followed. Id. at ¶ 29. This process involved an additional three 16 months of negotiations, telephone conferences and extensive back-and-forth with 17 defense counsel over the Settlement, claims protocol process, and Notice Plan. Id.
18 The parties executed the finalized Settlement in February 2017. Id.

19 As part of the Settlement, Defendant agreed "not to contest a motion by Class 20 Counsel for an award of attorneys' fees in an amount up to, but not exceeding 21 $600,000, plus reimbursement of costs and expenses." Settlement, Section VII, at 22 27; Birka-White Decl., ¶ 70. Parenthetically, whatever the court orders as an 23 attorney fee, that amount will be paid separately by the Defendant, and not 24 deducted from the UDC Settlement Fund. See Settlement, Section VII, at 27 ("Any 25 amount awarded by the Court shall be paid separately by Defendant and will not be 26 deducted from the UDC Settlement Fund."); Birka-White Decl., ¶ 73. As such, the 27 requested fee will be paid with "new" money. Any benefits the UDC or Mergens 28 class members would otherwise receive will be paid independent of the attorney fee

1 award. Id.

2 The only timekeepers associated with this fee application are David Birka-3 White, Steve Oroza, and Mindy Wong of BWLO, and to a much lesser extent, John 4 Green of Farella, Braun Martel, who provided valuable assistance at various stages 5 in the Mergens Action. Id. at ¶ 38. All time spent was necessary to complete the 6 work and was performed by very experienced attorneys dedicated to achieving an 7 excellent resolution of a complex set of circumstances in the most efficient manner 8 possible. Id. at ¶ 39. No staff or contract attorneys were utilized. Id.

9 During the course of the settlement negotiations, Class Counsel worked at 10 length with one of the country's premier notice providers, Shannon Wheatman, 11 President of Kinsella Media LLC, to develop a customized plan for distribution of a 12 joint notice concerning the modification of the UDC settlement and the Mergens 13 Settlement. Id. at ¶ 30. Class Counsel also worked with Arnold Rodio, President of 14 Class Litigation Administration Support Services ("CLASS"), the Court-appointed 15 claims administrator in the UDC Action, regarding the administration and 16 implementation of both the modifications to the UDC settlement and the Mergens 17 Settlement. Id.

18 B. Modification of the UDC Settlement Agreement

19 Concurrently with the filing of this motion and the Motion for Final 20 Approval of the Class Action Settlement in the Mergens Action, the parties are 21 submitting a joint motion in the UDC Action seeking final approval to modify that 22 settlement to (1) extend the claims period in the UDC Action for one year and 23 (2) utilize the UDC Settlement Fund to pay notice and administration costs and the 24 valid claims submitted by Mergens Class members. There were 11 plaintiffs' firms 25 working on the UDC Action, all of which have been paid for their services through 26 the prior UDC attorney fee award. Eight of those firms were appointed as class 27 counsel in the UDC Action, but it was BWLO who performed all the necessary 28 work to oversee the administration of the UDC Settlement Fund. No other firm

1 offered their services in any capacity to assist with the administration.<sup>4</sup> In a 2 meaningful way, this turn of events provided additional benefits to the UDC 3 settlement class in that there was absolutely no duplication of time spent on any 4 aspect of the modification of the settlement agreement in the UDC Action or the 5 filing and settling of the Mergens Action. Id at ¶ 66.

6 III. ARGUMENT

7 A. The Fee Request is Fair and Reasonable.

8 The key to any attorney fee request in the context of a class action is 9 reasonableness. “Attorneys’ fees provisions included in proposed class action 10 settlement agreements are, like every other aspect of such agreements, subject to 11 the determination whether the settlement is ‘fundamentally fair, adequate, and 12 reasonable.’” Staton v. Boeing Co., 327 F.3d 938, 963 (9th Cir. 2003); see also, In 13 re Bluetooth Headset Prod. Liab. Litig., 654 F.3d 935, 941 (9th Cir. 2011). The 14 reasonableness of the fee request is tied to results, namely the benefits conferred on 15 the class. In re Bluetooth Headset Prod. Liab. Litig., No. 07-ML-1822 DSF EX, 16 2012 WL 6869641, at *2 (C.D. Cal. July 31, 2012). Class Counsel submit that the 17 $600,000 fee, agreed to be paid by Sloan is reasonable given the value of the 18 settlement benefits conferred on the Class and the high quality of legal work.

19 Further, the Court is not limited by the actual amount of the claims to be 20 paid. Rather, the Court should consider the monetary and non-monetary benefits to 21 the Class and the economies involved in presenting the case. Camden I Condo
 22 Ass’n, Inc. v. Dunkle, 946 F. 2d 768, 775 (1991). For example, an essential 23 nonmonetary element of the Settlement was to educate and incentivize Class 24 members to reduce a safety risk by paying them the full value of out-of-pocket 25 costs related to the installation a Repair Kit, replacement pressure vessel or 26 <sup>4</sup> All plaintiffs firms, including BWLO, received a multiplier of 1.1 pursuant to the 27 attorney fee award in the UDC Action. Id. at ¶ 47. BWLO was not compensated to 28 manage the administration of the UDC Settlement Fund. Id. This lodestar multiplier of 1.1 diminished as BWLO continued to represent the interests of the UDC class.

Id.

1 replacement toilet.

2 Class Counsel transparently bases its fee application on an analysis which 3 first applies the lodestar calculation method and then “crosschecks” that analysis 4 according to the principles applicable to common funds, more aptly described in 5 this case as “constructive common funds” or “putative funds.”

6 1. The Requested Fee Award Is Appropriate Under 7 A Lodestar Analysis.

8 Class Counsel assert that the utilization of the lodestar method of calculating 9 a fee award is appropriate for a claims made settlement of this sort. In re Bluetooth
10 Headset Prod. Liab. Litig. 2012 WL 6869641, at *2 (“As the settlement is not a 11 common fund...the lodestar method is a more appropriate method of calculating a 12 reasonable fee.”). The “lodestar” amount is calculated by multiplying the number of 13 hours reasonably expended on the litigation by a reasonable hourly rate for the 14 region and for the experience of the lawyer. Id.; Staton, 327 F.3d at 965. While the 15 lodestar figure is presumptively reasonable, the court may adjust it by an 16 appropriate multiplier to reflect the reasonableness of the fee award taking into 17 consideration the quality of representation, the benefit obtained for the class, the 18 complexity and novelty of the issues presented, and the risk of nonpayment. In re
19 Bluetooth Headset Prod. Liab. Litig., 654 F.3d at 941–42 citing Hanlon v. Chrysler
20 Corp., 150 F.3d 1011, 1029 (9th Cir. 1998); Parkinson v. Hyundai Motor Am., 796 21 F. Supp. 2d 1160, 1170 (C.D. Cal. 2010).

22 Attorneys’ fees in class action cases are calculated according to the 23 “prevailing market rates in the relevant community....” Etter v. Thetford Corp., No.

6 Class Counsel have performed a total of 489.8 hours amounting to 8 BWLO will spend considerable time in overseeing the administration of the 9 Settlement.<sup>6</sup> Birka-White Decl., ¶¶ 35, 45, 59, 62. The proper implementation of 10 the terms of the Settlement will require careful attention to the nature of the claims 11 and specifically whether they belong to UDC or Mergens class members. Id. at 12 ¶ 37. This will require, as it has with the monitoring of the UDC settlement, regular 13 interaction and conferring with the Claims Administrator.<sup>7</sup> Id. Class Counsel 14 estimates that it will spend a minimum of 100 additional hours on Settlement 15 administration. Id. at ¶ 36. The total time committed through June 15, 2017, is as 16 follows:

17 Methodology I:

18 The simplest lodestar analysis is to divide the total time spent on the Mergens 19 Action and the modifications of the settlement in the UDC Action and exclude the 20 forthcoming administration time. This reveals a multiplier of 1.71. ( $$600,000 \div$ 21  $$350,402.08 = 1.71$ ).<sup>8</sup>

22 <sup>5</sup> This does not include additional time which will be incurred related to preparation 23 of the reply brief and attendance at the Fairness Hearing. Id., ¶¶ 45, 69.

24 <sup>6</sup> BWLO are experts in administering class action settlements, and are well aware of 25 the duties and responsibilities attendant thereto. Birka-White Decl., ¶ 9.

26 <sup>7</sup> As part of overseeing the UDC claims administration, class counsel David Birka-27 White and Mindy Wong interacted with the court-appointed Claims Administrator 28 on a frequent basis and were active in every aspect of the implementation of the UDC settlement agreement. Birka-White Decl., ¶¶ 37, 46. In that connection, BWLO conducted regular conference calls with key members of the administration staff, monitored claims, fielded class member questions, and analyzed the overall progress of the administration. Id.

<sup>8</sup> The actual multiplier will be less as this does not include time spent drafting the 6 See, Birka-White Decl., ¶¶ 19, 38, 59, 62, 69-70.

7 Methodology II:

8 An alternative approach to the lodestar analysis is to divide the requested fee 9 by the total time spent on the Mergens Action, the modifications of the settlement
 10 agreement in the UDC Action, and future administration of the Mergens 11 Settlement. This reveals a multiplier of 1.48. ( $$600,000 \div $406,402.08 = 1.48$ ).

19 Substantial additional work will be performed by Class Counsel as part of its 20 ongoing responsibility to oversee the administration of the Settlement. That time 21 will diminish the multiplier, and properly considered, should be included in the 22 lodestar calculation. See, Etter v. Thetford Corp. at *4 (“Awarding the lodestar

 4 within the range of reasonableness for similarly complex class actions. Chambers v.

19 a. Class Counsel’s Experience and Skill Favor Approval.

20 Through their skill, reputation, and demonstrated high-level work in this 21 action, Class Counsel were able to obtain a favorable settlement in the Mergens 22 Action while also extending benefits to UDC class members. Due to their efforts, 23 an outstanding result was obtained under challenging and unique circumstances.

24 b. Class Counsel Achieved Extraordinary Results
 25 for the Class.

26 As a result of Class Counsel’s prosecution of this case and subsequent 27 negotiation of the Settlement, Class Counsel secured a valuable benefit for the 28 Mergens Class. Hensley v. Eckerhart, 461 U.S. 424, 436 (1983) (the “most critical

1 factor is the degree of success obtained”); A.D. v. California Highway Patrol, 2 712 F.3d 446, 460 (9th Cir. 2013) (“[T]he reasonableness of the fee is determined 3 primarily by reference to the level of success achieved by the plaintiff.”) (citation 4 omitted). The Settlement provides complete relief for the benefit of persons who 5 incurred out-of-pocket installation expenses or sustained property damage as a 6 result of a Flushmate System. It is hard to imagine a better result could have been 7 achieved at trial. Importantly, the Settlement promotes safety by creating an 8 incentive for owners of Flushmate Systems - which pose a safety risk - to install a 9 Repair Kit, replacement pressure vessel, or replacement toilet. To date, no 10 objection has been filed or raised to the substantive Settlement terms, the fee 11 request or the incentive award. Further, no comments have been received to date 12 concerning the modifications to the UDC Settlement and Plan of Allocation.

13 c. The Difficulty and Complexity of the Action Support
 14 the Requested Fee Award.

15 The complexity of this case and numerous challenges to obtain what is 16 essentially an uncapped settlement fund on behalf of the Class supports the 17 requested fee award. The use of cy pres funds to pay claims in the Mergens Action 18 presented novel and complex issues that required substantial efforts by Class 19 Counsel to design creative and appropriate solutions to achieve the Settlement.

20 d. Class Counsel Assumed Contingency Risk.

21 “The purpose of granting plaintiffs’ attorneys a multiplier in a class action 22 settlement is to reflect the risk that they assume in bringing a lawsuit.” Etter v.
 23 Thetford Corp., 2017 WL 1433312 at *4. See also, Vizcaino v. Microsoft Corp., 24 290 F.3d at 1048 (affirming that “[r]isk is a relevant circumstance” in determining 25 an award of attorneys’ fees). Prosecution of this class action involved significant 26 financial risk for Class Counsel, who undertook the matter solely on a contingent 27 basis, with no guarantee of recovery. Birka-White Decl., ¶ 68. Having already 28 incurred $111,767.00 in unpaid fees overseeing the administration of the UDC

1 Settlement Fund, BWLO was now embarking on further litigation and risk in the 2 Mergens Action. Id. at ¶ 19. Class Counsel have performed a great deal of complex 3 work and incurred expenses on behalf of the Class. Id. at ¶¶ 55-56, 59, 62. This 4 delay in payment, and risk assumed, also justifies the requested fee.

5 e. There is No Evidence of Collusion Among the Parties

6 The Settlement is not conditioned upon judicial approval of the agreed-upon 7 fees. The Settlement provides: “In the event the court approves the settlement, but 8 declines to award Class Counsel’s fees and expenses in the amount requested by 9 Class Counsel, the settlement will nevertheless be binding on the parties.”

10 Settlement, Section VII. The court in Staton properly took exception to the parties 11 “conditioning the settlement on a set amount of attorney fees...” Staton v. Boeing 12 Co., 327 F.3d at 971. Under those circumstances, the district court was inhibited 13 from “engaging in independent determinations of reasonable fees, as required by 14 law.” Id.

15 In the instant case, the parties made certain that the approval of a $600,000 16 attorney fee award was not a condition of the underlying Settlement. In this way, 17 the parties further protected the Class and the Court from any concerns of collusion 18 between Class Counsel and Defense Counsel. In other words, if the Court were not 19 to approve the requested $600,000 fee, the Settlement goes forward. In that event, 20 the fee request by Class Counsel would be fully litigated and adjudicated 21 independent of Sloan’s agreement to pay up to $600,000 in fees. Indeed, were that 22 to happen, it is the view of Class Counsel that reasonable and principled arguments 23 could be made for a fee in excess of $600,000, as was argued at mediation. As a 24 practical matter, it must be acknowledged that one of the reasons to negotiate the 25 attorneys’ fees as part of an overall class action settlement is to avoid further 26 litigation and compromise the issues associated with the potential range of fees that 27 could be reasonably awarded by the Court.

28

1                   2.     The Requested Fee Award is Reasonable When Calculated 2                                   as a Percentage of the Constructive Common Fund.

3             Alternatively, were this Settlement to be considered as a constructive 4 common or putative fund, the Court can cross check the reasonableness of the fee 5 request by evaluating the likely total benefit to be conferred to the Class. In this 6 case, where the Settlement did not create a common fund, and the Defendant has 7 agreed to pay the attorney fees separately, the Court, in its discretion, may analyze 8 the value of the case as a “constructive common fund for fee setting purposes.” See 9 Bluetooth, 654 F. 3d at 940-41. To calculate appropriate attorneys fees under the 10 construction common fund method, the court should look to, among other things, 11 the maximum settlement amount that could be claimed.

12             In the Mergens Action, Sloan has agreed to pay all valid non-Property and 13 Property Damage claims submitted during the Claims Period with no cap or fixed 14 ceiling. This feature is an important distinction from settlements with a fixed 15 ceiling in that it exposes Sloan to the potential of real increased risk while 16 simultaneously providing substantial additional benefits to the Class.

17             While the Settlement is more appropriately described as a claims made 18 settlement, to facilitate a constructive common fund “cross-check” analysis, the 19 potential value of the Settlement must be considered. There are 453,000 Flushmate 20 Systems that are included in the Settlement. Rodio Decl., ¶ 12. If 100% of the 21 owners made claims, albeit extremely unlikely, the number of claims would be 22 453,000 units x 75% = 339,750 units; namely the approximate number of locations 23 with one Flushmate Toilet versus locations with more than one Flushmate Toilet.
24 See, Rodio Decl., ¶ 11.

25             Were claims to be made as to the 339,750 units, Sloan’s exposure would be 26 $43,318,125 (339,750 x $127.50). The remaining 113,250 units are “second” 27 Flushmate Toilets at the same location and would be entitled to $30.00 per unit or 28 $3,397,500. Therefore, the total theoretical value of the Mergens constructive

1 common fund is $46,715,625. The requested fee of $600,000, considered in that 2 context, represents 0.01284% of the potential exposure. The benchmark common 3 fund percentage is 25%.

4 Yet another more realistic way to access the value of the constructive 5 common fund is to look to the declaration of Arnold Rodio, President of CLASS, 6 the court-appointed Claims Administrator for both the UDC and Mergens Actions.
 7 Mr. Rodio opines that given the anticipated claims rate of 2.4%, the non-Property 8 Damage and Property Damage claims will be approximately $1.7 million. Birka-
 9 White Decl., ¶ 71; Rodio Decl., ¶ 12. 50% of the cost of the $1,000,000 Notice Plan 10 is $500,000 plus 50% of the projected $1,000,000 in additional administration costs
 11 to oversee both settlements is $500,000. Birka-White Decl., ¶ 72; Rodio Decl., ¶¶ 7, 12 15. Under this constructive common fund analysis, the minimum value of the 13 Settlement is $2,700,000.

14 Anticipated cost of 2.4%	$1,700,000.00
15 Claims Rate
16 Notice Costs	$500,000.00
17 Administration Costs	$500,000.00
18 Total	$2,700,000.00

20 The cost of notice and administration are an integral part of the benefits to 21 the Class. Staton v. Boeing Co., 327 F.3d at 975 (“The post-settlement cost of 22 providing notice to the class can reasonably be considered a benefit to the class.”) 23 The notice educates the class, while administration implements the settlement. The 24 cross-check value of the constructive common fund is 22% ( $$2,700,000 \div $600,000$ 25  $= 22\%$ ) which is well within the commonly accepted benchmark of 25%. In re 26 Online DVD–Rental Antitrust Litig., 779 F.3d 934, 949 (9th Cir. 2015).
 27 Furthermore, the Settlement has, as a significant component, the nonmonetary value 28 of reducing the safety risk, upon which no realistic value can be placed, but is an

1 essential part of the analysis of the reasonable value of the attorney fee request.

2 In summary, the lodestar analysis when cross-checked with the constructive 3 common fund analysis provides the same result. The high quality of legal work and 4 safety benefits conferred upon the Class demonstrates that the requested fee of 5 $600,000, paid separate from the class benefits, is more than reasonable.

6 B. Class Counsel’s Expenses Were Reasonable and Necessary.

7 Pursuant to the Settlement terms and settled precedent, Class Counsel are 8 entitled to recover the out-of-pocket costs reasonably incurred in investigating, 9 prosecuting, and settling this action. See In re Media Vision Tech. Sec. Litig., 913 F.
10 Supp. 1362, 1366 (N.D. Cal. 1996) (citing Mills v. Electric Auto-Lite Co., 396 U.S.
11 375, 391–92 (1970)).

12 As documented with this Court, Class Counsel have incurred $9.601.05 in 13 unreimbursed, out-of-pocket expenses. Birka-White Decl., ¶¶ 55-56, 62. This 14 includes costs advanced in connection with investigating the claims, engaging a 15 mediator, travel, legal research, photocopying, obtaining transcripts, telephone 16 service, postage, and other customary litigation expenses. Id. at ¶ 55. These costs 17 were both reasonable and necessary, and should be reimbursed in full. Id. at ¶ 56.

18 C. Payment of an Incentive Award to the Class Representative 19 is Appropriate.

20 In addition, the Ninth Circuit has recognized that “named plaintiffs, as 21 opposed to designated class members who are not named plaintiffs, are eligible for 22 reasonable incentive payments.” Staton v. Boeing Co., 327 F.3d at 977 (9th Cir.
23 2003); Rodriguez v. West Pub’g Corp., 563 F.3d 948, 958 (9th Cir. 2009) (noting 24 that service awards “are fairly typical in class action cases.”). Such awards are 25 “intended to compensate class representatives for work done on behalf of the class 26 [and] make up for financial or reputational risk undertaken in bringing the action.” 27 Id. Relevant considerations include: (1) the actions the class representatives took to 28 protect the interests of the class; (2) the degree to which the class benefited from

1 those actions; and (3) the amount of time and effort the class representatives
2 expended in pursuing the litigation. See Cook v. Niedert, 142 F.3d 1004, 1016 (7th 3 Cir. 1998).

4 The service award of $5,000 sought for Plaintiff is reasonable and justified.
5 See, e.g., In re Mego Fin. Corp. Sec. Litig., 213 F.3d 454, 457, 463 (9th Cir. 2000)
6 (approving service awards of $5,000.) At the preliminary approval hearing, the 7 Court stated, “These are involved cases. There are certain obligations that the 8 named plaintiffs have, and we want to, I think, in terms of just general policy, 9 incentivize persons to become named plaintiffs with compensation that makes some 10 sense.” Transcript of Proceedings - April 10, 2017, 15:12-19. In addition to 11 lending her name to this case, and subjecting herself to public attention and 12 scrutiny, the Class Representative actively participated in the litigation, reviewing 13 the complaint, settlement documents, and consulting with Class Counsel on a 14 regular basis. Birka-White Decl., ¶¶ 79-81. It is hard to imagine a better result could 15 have been achieved on behalf of the Class had it proceeded to trial, a result which 16 would not have been possible without Plaintiff’s participation.

17 In light of the Class Representative’s willingness to step forward on behalf of 18 the Class and oversee the process and the actions of Class Counsel, Class Counsel 19 respectfully submits that the Court should grant the requested Incentive Award.

20 IV. CONCLUSION

21 For the foregoing reasons, Class Counsel respectfully ask the Court to issue 22 an Order awarding attorneys’ fees in the amount of $600,000, reimbursement of 23 expenses in the amount of $9,601.05 and a service award in the amount of $5,000 24 for the Class representative.
